Distinct design principles featuring character from the graphic dot perforations.

The forms emulate Josef Hoffmann's 1930 design of the modernist model 811. In its proportions, the 822 collection works more with the natural forms of manual bentwood technology; it tempers some parts of the structure, but conversely, the graphic use of circular holes visually empowers the seat and backrest.

These holes connect the colour finish with the interior the chair inhabits, or with the clothing of the person seated on it, and they impart a specific, timeless character to this comprehensive product family.

Designed by Claesson Koivisto Rune.

Claesson Koivisto Rune studio is one of the top design and architecture studios of its generation.

Three friends and former classmates, Mårten Claesson, Eero Koivisto and Ola Rune, founded the studio in Stockholm in 1995 with the aim of creating a full-service atelier bringing architecture and design together.

Since then, they have won more than 60 prestigious awards, they have completed dozens of architecture projects all over the world, and designed furniture and other products for more than 80 international companies.
